"Coming to Bryant was very exciting for me because of the community, the professors, and the academic life. Everyone here, both faculty and students, accepted me right away without a hitch and it was as if I had been at Bryant my entire college career.

The entire faculty here is nothing but friendly and supportive. I use to attend a large university where the professors would only know you by your student ID number. At Bryant, they know you for you—they know your name; they know your face and they know who you are.

Coursework here is all about group collaboration and experiential learning. In each class we analyze real-world principles and practices based on real examples. Bryant also really teaches you how to be professional in the classroom—because that carries over into the real world."

"I transferred to Bryant because I knew that I would be able to get the education and experience I needed here, and that I would be a part of a close-knit, caring community.

Bryant feels like home. Everyone here is dedicated to helping you succeed and wants to make sure that you're having the best experience you possibly can. There are so many opportunities to get involved in clubs and activities and make new friends.

That sense of community extends to the classroom as well. I loved working with other students on group assignments and projects and my professors were always checking in to make sure that I was doing OK and that I understood the material.

Bryant opened up a whole new world of new ideas and options for me. It's a world I wouldn't have gotten to experience anywhere else."

"I've always loved science and want to use what I've learned to help others. When I transferred to Bryant, I had lots of questions. I wasn't sure what my future would be or even what my options were.

I didn't have to worry, though, my professors and mentors helped me figure out my path and how to get where I wanted to go. Through them I found the Biology: Pre-Medical and Health Professions track, which I loved.

At Bryant, you have a lot more one-on-one time with your professors. You can ask questions and they'll take the time to make sure you have the answers, they'll help you find opportunities that are perfect for you.

I had the opportunity to do important research at Bryant, and to present my findings at several national science conferences. I'm glad that work I've done will be used by others in my field."

"I loved my time at Bryant! The Bryant community was always extremely supportive both in and outside of the classroom. That support, along with exceptional guidance, propelled me to where I am, which is exactly where I want to be.

While at Bryant, I was a portfolio manager for the school's Archway Investment Fund, which allows finance students to manage real investments with real money. Archway was one of the main reasons I chose to attend Bryant and it immersed me in a hands-on experience with portfolio management.
